We've been polishing the PAPERBOTS game for a while now. In case you've wondered how they work, check out the video below. Bots have been a part of the game for quite some time now. There's a whole history of bots to be told. They've appeared in games from the very beginning. A few years ago, we watched as various designers suggested ways of making papercraft available to anyone who was interested in them. We heard about pop-up books and other versions of a papercraft idea that was already around. Since then, we've learnt a lot about both the design aspects and the manufacturing process of papercraft. A friend of ours used to work at a papercraft factory. We were intrigued by the manufacturing process, learning about materials and how they're put together. She explained the stresses a book goes through. We

What's New in the?

MBTV Player is an offering to place live video feeds from all the channels currently broadcasting 24 hours a day over the internet into a virtual TV. This is accomplished with Live Streaming or Pre-Recorded video, which is recorded into the viewer's Avatar, Portal, Lobby, Second Life, or any other open display area. Just as a conventional television has channels, so does MBTV Player have the channels. MBTV Player's IPTV (Internet Protocol Television) offering has television broadcasts from Metaverse Television in addition to channels from other companies and sources. MBTV Player is very configurable and can be very easily modified. The channels are controlled through the MBTV Player menu. MBTV Player is available for free download from www.mbv.org. TIMESHIFT is a fun, free, SL-based dating sim. Players choose either a man or a woman to be a host at a party in a private home. That host has plenty of private time to do whatever they want with guests and other hosts. Many guests are people who were at the party last time they checked the host list, so it's possible for friends to meet, even though they're not at the same party. During the party the player can ask the host a series of questions, or the host can ask for the player's opinion. The player's answers can be varied from be-honest to rude or even humorous. Hosts can be asked for a secret password to unlock the party, and that host can then visit each of the other guests at their destination for sex. However, hosts do not leave their own party, and guests that were at the last party do not visit unless they receive a message from the host asking them to come. At the conclusion of the party the player and each guest can choose one of the host to become more intimate with that host, making a homosexual/bisexual/transgender scene with the host. TIMESHIFT is available for free download from www.timeshift.com. MOST IMPORTANT TIP OF THE DAY Remember that you can pass as a human, or an avatar. You could start a conversation with someone, or turn someone off with a reply. When you meet someone, have a conversation, ask a question, or wish them a happy birthday, you might be asked, "Would you like to play a game?" If they ask, "Would you like me to ask you a question or give you
