We know that football video games have always been our best friends. No matter the club, no matter the player, no matter the era. We've long enjoyed every minute of trying to lead our favourite team through a season and win the game. But our game has evolved. Our creators understand the way the world of football has changed in recent years. They're taking our games to new heights and giving them more personality. Personality. That's the biggest change. Because it really all starts with the game characters. They're now more than friends on the pitch. They're real characters with different personalities and motivations that make them unique individuals. You're part of a team. You run and you pass. You save goals. You score goals. But with more personality than ever before. Let's take a closer look at the new season of innovation in the second episode of our FIFA 25 interview series. This is FIFA. So, let's talk about the new camera perspective with Direct Control this season. What are some of your favourite things about this one? It was the most fun I've had experimenting with the camera in any game, ever. It's all about imagination. It's about freeing players from mechanical constraints, and giving them a new opportunity to interact with the game and help bring each game to life. Imagine if we could push the ball through the defence by manually moving the players? Wow! We've already been hearing a lot about The Journey. How does it stack up compared to previous seasons? Overall, The Journey makes the Journey better. Our designers are serious about creating an emotional journey. When you play FIFA 22, you'll feel the World Cup in your own way. You'll feel the emotions. You'll play the way that you and the people around you are most comfortable playing. It's personalized football. We see in FIFA 22 that the creators also looked at the way fans feel when they play the game. Let's take your favourite moments on The Journey. What are some of your most immersive moments? When I'm playing at club level in the Carabao Cup, I love the feeling of testing myself against what I think are the best players in the world. It doesn't
