' lyrics were among the Top 15 all-time hits in the U.S., selling more than one million units and earning it a Gold certification from the RIAA in 1995.[53][45] The tune was a No. 1 hit in the UK as well, and topped the charts there for several weeks. In 2006 it was inducted into the Grammy Hall of Fame.[63] Everything You have to worry about that may come to you is a blessing compared to what you would have encountered if you were I. The path into the upper world may be rough. You may be pushed on by invisible powers or you may struggle forward despite the objections of what you think is coming for you. You may see all kinds of strange things and every sign point to damnation. On the other hand you may have a favorable beginning where you are assisted by knowledgeable friends or you may find gods in the person of Jesus Christ. What matters most is your positive state of mind and your loyalty to Him. In 2006, Big and Uzzi released a brand-new show titled 'Vote for Em and U!', with the play on 'E-Mystaque' in a marketing ploy designed to resurrect the success of the British radio show their act performed on at the time.[46] An EP was made for the show with five songs including the single 'No More Pain', whilst Big Hat Entertainment released a full-length album of the same name.[47] Shortly after, Uzzi parted ways with the group and introduced his new project Travie McCoy, with singer/rapper Petey Pablo eventually taking his place in the group.[48] God; She is the moon to me/sun, the stars, the sky, the sea, in all that I see/she gives me love and peace, when I walk, when I soar, and yes, when I dream. God; In her, I feel no shame/no hope of loss, for she is mine/like an eminent a claim, forever mine/God, she is my deep blue eyes/I love her, I ador.e.w/i love her, I worship/love her, I'll know no other/than to love her even more. God; We haven't met/To not look at her/would not be right/She is an angel on our right side/God, she is the moon to me...' (Last stanza repeated twice.) 8 Ways to Make Your College Experience More Helpiable College is a time to explore the world around you and to challenge yourself outside of school. But some habits put you into unhealthy patterns that make moving on after graduation more difficult. From competitive and hierarchical cultures to students who let the responsibilities of college change their relationship with their friends and family, the transition from high school to college is often harder than you may think. Getting away from high school is exciting, but the transition can also be a time of grief. You may feel alone, because it may be difficult to bridge the gap that separates the high school friends you left behind and the college friends you were just meeting. This can leave you feeling less connected to your university, which can lead to disappointing grades, frustration and even heartache. Don't let the difficulties of the transition to college cloud your objectives for making the most of your college experience. The transition to college is a great time to find your way and your sense of direction. Here are 8 ways to make the most of the experience.

1. Claim your independence Be assertive. Starting to live on your own means you have to deal with several things that weren't on your agenda as a high school student: unreliable transportation, filling your own gas tank and handling your own finances. When college students feel entitled to take out loans and live off their parents, they end up being less responsible. Get involved in the community. Whether you're looking for a new job, clubs to join or housing to lease, search for relevant opportunities first and make them part of your transition to college. Knowing that there are clubs and organizations on campus to help you will make college a more positive experience
