COD BLACK OPS III KEY - The_Sims_3_Key_040518 Karnataka govt has announced that ITI students willing to take admission in govt. owned colleges of govt. should not apply in govt. owned colleges for admission. In a latest move to save government's expenditure on ITI trainees for admission in government colleges, the Karnataka government has directed students, who have passed ITIs in government colleges, to be provided post-graduation training in a good government college. The restriction in government owned colleges will come into force from next academic year. This is a good move, the government would find it very difficult to control its expenditure in government colleges and institutes, and also save the government's money. This move is a good decision taken by the government. It is also going to be a better idea for those students who were unable to complete their graduation, for them to take up PG (Post Graduate) Degree in the government colleges as per the government of Karnataka. But this move to provide post-graduation training in government colleges is unlikely to be accepted by all students. It will be expected that more students will leave government colleges and go for self-education programs to get their degrees, and not for post-graduation programs, it is like government is forcing students to remain in government colleges for only a limited period of time, this move will certainly not be liked by all students. It is not good to force students to choose between their own work and study, rather it is better for students to have more options of jobs and higher degree
